

About Alexandra

I am a Senior Associate Solicitor at Irwin Mitchell and I help clients who have suffered life-changing and catastrophic injuries as a consequence of medical negligence. I started my training contract at the firm in 2011 and have practiced solely in complex and high value medical negligence cases for the past 10 years.

I chose to specialise in clinical negligence because it is an area of law where I can make a real difference in people's lives which I find an incredibly rewarding aspect of my role. I am committed to helping my clients to access early rehabilitation in order to ensure that they have the best chance of maximising their quality of life after suffering such a life changing injury. I appreciate that often clients simply want answers to explain what has happened and to ensure that lessons are learned to prevent the same mistakes from happening to other patients.

I am passionate about supporting families through these difficult times and ensuring that their concerns in relation to the treatment they have received are fully investigated. I have a special interest in acting for clients who have suffered from amputation as a consequence of medical negligence and have successfully resolved a number of claims resulting in significant compensation claims which ensure all of their future needs can be met.

Away from the office, I enjoy spending time socialising with family and friends, which often involves eating good food and wine! I enjoy travelling and discovering new places from the rainforests in Peru to the Whitsunday Islands in Australia. In any downtime that I can grab, I can often be found with a good book in hand (preferably in a hammock somewhere).
